Stainless Steel Partitions

Compatible with the Pasto 12 and 26

Stainless steel partitions are used in sous vide cooking so as to divide the working area of a water bath and accurately control portions.

Separating food into different sections using the partitions allows the easy identification of ingredients. For example, ingredients that have just been placed into the sous vide water bath can be separated from those which have been in and reached the correct serving temperature.

The SVD S is compatible with the Pasto 12 range of sous vide water baths, with the SVD L compatible with the 26. Both are made from high quality stainless steel and are incredibly easy to clean.
